Bio:

Mr. Paul Wormeli is Executive Director Emeritus of the Integrated Justice Information Systems Institute, a non-profit corporation formed to help state and local governments develop ways to share information among the disciplines engaged in homeland security, justice and public safety. He has been active in the development of software products, has managed system implementation for dozens of agencies throughout the world, and has managed national programs in support of the application of technology in law enforcement and criminal justice agencies.

Mr. Wormeli was appointed by the President as Deputy Administrator of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in the U.S. Department of Justice. He has been an advisor to the White House on security and privacy, participated in the drafting of Federal law on this topic, and responsible for the development of numerous state plans to implement the Federal and state laws on information system security and privacy. During his tenure in the Justice Department, he served on the President's Committee on Drug Enforcement. Mr. Wormeli is an author and lecturer on law enforcement and justice technology.

Mr. Wormeli was served as the Executive Director of the IJIS Institute from 2003 to 2011. He has served on the technical advisory committee for the Harvard School of Government Innovator's Network program for law enforcement and justice, and on the NASCIO Information System Architecture Working Group. In 2009, Mr. Wormeli was appointed to serve on the Committee on Law and Justice (CLAJ) of the National Academy of Sciences which was created to provide a more scientific understanding of issues pertaining to crime and justice, identifying new areas of research and participating in resolving scientific controversies. In 2011, Mr. Wormeli was named by Government Technology magazine as one of the Top 25 Doers, Dreamers & Drivers in Public Sector Innovation in the U.S., one of "an eclectic group of individuals ...who share a willingness to challenge convention and find new answers to long-standing issues." He has also been presented the Kelly Bacon award for "Outstanding Service to the Justice Information Technology Community". In 2012, Wormeli was named as a Senior Fellow in the Homeland Security Policy Institute of the George Washington University.

Mr. Wormeli holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Electronics Engineering from the University of New Mexico, and a Master of Engineering Administration degree from the George Washington University. He undertook courses in the honors program for industry as a part of the doctoral program in Engineering Economic Systems at Stanford University. He received a certificate in Cross-Boundary Transformation from the John F. Kennedy School of Government Executive Education program at Harvard University
